

Hey you! We got a great Project for you >> Join an early stage Startup for your IDP! Starting as of: now

We are: a team of entrepreneurial enthusiasts – aiming to transform the media industry. As Varia – we offer Perspectives as a Service: a AI based text processing solution that helps individual users to leave their filter bubble – and aids corporates in their decision making processes.

You are: looking for a dynamic and highly motivating environment where you can show off your UX Design skills. If you master some Angular based frontend programming on top, even better – then we can go together from design to implementation! Also team applications (UX/UI + FE) are more than welcome...

You will: have the chance to collaborate closely with the founding team, plus have the opportunity to work on your own dedicated projects. Right now you would work on UX components of our public Alpha version, develop the product further – by giving it a kick-ass look and feel (that it is currently still missing)! You can check out the project yourself on alpha.varia.media

We will: provide you with a taste of the famed startup working culture, learn to deal with change as the only constant and enjoy a free beer or pizza every now and then in exchange! Also; we will provide you with all the support needed, allow you to flexibly time your working hours around your busy student schedule.

Submit your questions or applications directly to Prof. Dr. Isabell Welpé (welpe@tum.de) & to Co-Founder & CEO Georg (georg@varia.media). We will both get in touch with you shortly.
