Design Thinking is a widely used innovation technique, but can you do it online and at a larger scale? Help us find the answers!

What?
1E9 is building a new home for future optimists, a place that has high class tech journalism, a nice community infrastructure, a yearly conference in Munich and various events. Check out our beta: https://1e9.community

Why?
We want to do our part to shape our common future through technology. We believe in the power of a community that is actively sharing enthusiasm, knowledge and ideas.

Who?
We’re four founders, two people from the former WIRED Germany team and two VCs from VITO Ventures and VITO One in collaboration with Prof. Dr. Isabell Welpe, TUM Chair for Strategy and Organization.

When?
Now and/or as soon as possible

How?
We use the open source software Discourse to foster community-powered journalism and bring together experts and enthusiasts of all relevant branches of technology. But in the end we want to get stuff done! So we need online tools for innovation & collaboration - and that’s why we need you!

You:
- know your JavaScript and, ideally, a fair bit of Ruby on Rails
- have experiences in innovation frameworks like Design Thinking etc.
- are willing to dive deep into Discourse to help us develop a plugin for a collaborative innovation technique within our community
- are a curious person with a passion for the new

Ready to join a highly motivated team of future optimists?
Then we would love to hear from you!
Please drop a line: Prof. Dr. Isabell Welpe (welpe@tum.de) and hallo@onebillion.tech